Hard for understanding it—
His life, his day, his day;
Tree full of him, hunter,
En de l'homme qui avait?

Hugest in de town;
Here come Mister Harriette

Don't forget the primary next Tuesday.

Mr. W. H. Robertson, of Lynchburg, was in town Tuesday.

Mr. R. Francione and friend, Mr. Schaffer, of Richmond, are spending a few days with Farmville friends.

The first of the series of public lectures will be given in the Opera House tonight.

The summer straw hasn't yet been called in, but you may look out for an early notice to retire it.

No citizen should hesitate to make choice of those who are to represent them in official place.

Open fires were acceptable Monday night. Unfortunately town folks as a general thing can't afford such luxury.

Dr. W. E. Anderson was last week elected 1st vice-president of the Virginia Medical Society, an honor quite worthily bestowed.

Mr. Robert Stokes is improving his farm as rapidly as any farmer we know of and at the same time is growing profitable crops.

The tobacco grown this season by Mr. D. L. Armstrong and his sons is not as large as some we have seen, but it promises to be a good seller.

The Y. M. C. A. Star Course begins early in October and we are told is one of the best ever engaged by the Association.

The Democrat who fails to express his preference at the primary will have no right to complain of the officers who are then chosen.

Griffin Branch, who has been a faithful and efficient worker in the Herald office, has been confined to his home some weeks by sickness.

When we read of what one fellow worker did with two acres of ground it should impress us with the fact that we neglect our gardens shamefully.

Mrs. Judge Crute and Mrs. C. F. Bugg went to Baltimore on last Saturday to visit Mrs. Tribble who has been ill again after rallying from severe sickness.

Do you recall the sunset of last Friday? It was glorious. But was it not more glorious by reason of the fact that the Normalites were here to enjoy it with us?

No minstrel performance ever so delighted a Farmville audience as did the Who What When two seasons ago. Here again next Friday night, October 2nd.

Three more terms of the county court and then the system dies out of existence in Virginia. Shall we not prepare to make the last session a memorial one?

The Guard never looked better than on dress parade Tuesday afternoon. They drilled well and were the observed of all observers as they marched through our streets.

Mr. Wright Barber "has the neck" of growing more peas on an acre of ground than others. No man ever lost anything by the judicious use of peas as a fertilizer.

The corn crop of Mr. Ike Glenn, of which mention has already been made in the Herald is lifting its splendid promise, while his tobacco is about as good as can grow.

"Tam" Davis was in town on Saturday, wearing, by the way, the first overcoat of the season and chafing under the legal restraints recently thrown around the manly sport of hunting.

If the viva voce plan is not the best plan as Democrats will have the courage to correct it within party lines. Let no man go to kicking. It isn't seemly or right.

It wouldn't take Farmville long to pass an anti-spitting ordinance. But there is no need to pass it unless it is going to be enforced. No more dead heads on the pages of our law books.

Now that Judge Watkins has become a veteran oysterman he may be able to answer this question. Why does an oyster sleep and live on its left side? We are told that if forced to rest on the right it simply dwindles away and dies by degrees.

Mrs. Hallyburton and Miss Lancaster, of Richmond, are rooming at Mr. R. J. McKinney's and taking their meals at Mrs. Berkeley's. They are daughters of the late Mr. Robert A. Lancaster, who was so well and favorably known in our town.

Three members of the Normal faculty were planning for a hunt on last Saturday under the leadership of Veteran Fisherman, "Ben" Cox, but were prevented from going on that day. The result is that the woods are still crowded with squirrels.

The social world of Farmville promises to be "gay" during the coming season. And all of us would do well to get our quarters and half-dollars ready for the demand will be great for them: Lectures, concerts, plays, &c., are to abound. Well, we are hard workers and are entitled to rest and recreation.

At Redwing, Minn., they have introduced a "spanking machine" into the training school. We are not advised as to whether or not it is an improvement on the well-worn slipper of other if not better days. Our recollection is that it would be right hard to improve on that time-honored weapon.

Saturday was a perfect day and our streets presented an animated appearance, though our farmer friends generally were too busy to come to town. There was quite a touch of chill in the atmosphere and most everybody went at a quickened pace. Red apples and red cheeks made a happy and harmonious combination.

Mr. E. E. Hundley has cut a fine crop of corn from some eight acres of land which a few years ago would not have brought a good crop of black-eyed peas. It only goes to prove again that good farming does pay, the croaker to the contrary notwithstanding. Peas had much to do with this success, however.

Go-Carts are "all the go" for going bodies. Do you can please you in price and style.

Mr. J. Horace Booker was a business visitor in town on yesterday.

There are so many pretty things in our stores that it is difficult to make suggestions.

Don't forget that next Tuesday is election day. Go early and carry your friends with you.

The courthouse yard is improved. Cleaning up is a good thing. Treasurer Ewing superintended the work and says no paper must be thrown over the square.

Our walk ways thrill with new interest during these bright days of autumn, for are not the Normal girls moving up and down then forming a panorama of ever changing, and entrancing interest?

Miss Spillman, who has taught music here for some seasons past, has been visiting friends in town. She will no longer make her home with us, and this her host of friends very much regret.

Some one said to us that there were two hundred normalites in the Methodist Sunday School. That's a splendid congregation of itself, and fortunate the minister and teachers who have such material upon which to labor.

Normal School Notes.

Probably it may interest some readers to know that as many as two hundred and ninety-one plates are laid every day in the new dining room which has just been finished. When the new rooms are finished, there will certainly be the even three hundred, if not more. Rooms that once were class rooms, now accommodate three or four girls. Is not this a bright prospect for the future schools of Virginia? Would that we could accommodate more every year.

Prof. Wyche is giving a series of lectures on "Story Telling" to the senior A's and the Senior B's every afternoon this week. On Friday evening in the Assembly Hall, he will deliver an interesting lecture, which the public are invited to attend.

Mrs. Jamison, of Salem, Va., and Mrs. Newby, of Alexandria, Va., who are connected now with the domestic department of the Normal, are fast making friends and are growing acquainted with the busy routine of life in the school.

Miss Katherine Vaughan was a visitor at the school Tuesday morning.

Miss Clara Spillman, who was so long connected with the school and the town as a music teacher of note, is spending a few days here visiting old friends.

Miss Martha Coulling, of Richmond, who has been instructor of the Art Department spent the opening week here. She left Saturday last for New York, where she will pursue a special course in the Art Schools there.

Mr. Thuraxes, of Amelia county, accompanied his sister, Miss Alma last Friday to the school. Miss Thuraxes was a student here several years ago, and will be remembered pleasantly by a number of her old friends.

Fifteen Years For Murder.

William Holston was put on trial in the county court of Prince Edward last Tuesday morning for the murder of Henderson Matthews on the night of September 5th. Before night all the evidence had been heard, instructions of the court given and arguments of counsel on both sides concluded. The jury in a few minutes after partaking of supper was ready with a verdict which found the prisoner guilty of murder in the second degree and fixed his punishment at fifteen years in the penitentiary.

Holston pleaded not guilty to the indictment and the ground of defense was that he shot Matthews believing himself to be in imminent danger of being killed by the latter. The shooting occurred on the Appomattox river-side in Farmville and created much excitement especially among the colored population.

Messrs. William Lancaster and J. S. McIlwaine defended Holston.

Meeting of Teachers.

The first fall meeting of the Prince Edward Teachers League will be held at the Farmville High School on Saturday, October 3rd, beginning at 10:30 o'clock. The work of the coming session will be discussed, Superintendent Eggleston leading the discussion. All county teachers are expected to be present.

Semi-Weekly.

Editor Herald:—Farmville is large enough, with the aid of the adjacent country, to support two weekly papers, but I take the liberty of suggesting that one of them should be published on Tuesday of each week and the other on Friday. This would be equivalent to a semi-weekly, and I can't understand how it would be inconvenient to the publisher of either paper. I am very loyal to the home papers, but confess that I would prefer taking them in "broken doses." If this is impertinent suggestion I beg pardon.

READER.

[The Herald adopted Friday 13 years ago and it rather thinks it has prior claims.—Ed.]

The Misses Davidson are occupying the new store house just below Mrs. S. O. Holston's old stand. They carry a handsome line of Dry Goods and Notions. Ladies from the country, who are in the habit of shopping in this city, will be pleased to know that in the rear of the store is a parlor where they may rest and have free use of the toilet.

Unique Entertainment.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Baptist church, promise to give a rather unique entertainment on Friday night, the 9th of October. Refreshments will be served in an orange grove, and in the midst of this will be a well from which will be drawn the most delicious beverages. Later announcement will be given.

Town Council Meeting.

The town council met last Tuesday night in special session. The object of the call was to look further into the need of a new generator for the electric plant. The Light Committee stated the necessity for the expenditure and Mr. Anderson moved that the purchase be made. It was unanimously carried and the council adjourned. The cost of the machine ordered is $1,400 f. o. b., Schenectady, N. Y.

Are you Ready to Vote?

Before another issue of the Herald, the Democrats of Prince Edward will be called on to do important public service. Are you ready for it? That is the question. If so then remember the day of election, go to the polls and do your duty to your neighbors, your family and yourself. Local officers are most important of all public officials.

Don't hesitate or fear to make choice. The Democratic party of the South must live, and it's life depends on the eternal vigilance of its friends. If you object to the primary plan or the viva voce system of executing it is objectionable to you, remember that they were ordered by brother Democrats, and that if they are hurtful to party organization, Democrats will inaugurate the change. Touch elbows and make another fight for law and order.

Death of Mrs. B. M. Smith.

This estimable lady died at the home of her son-in-law, Professor Addison Hoge, of Washington and Lee University, on the 17th inst. Her remains reached here on the evening of the 18th and from here were taken to Hampden-Sydney, where the burial took place in the square of Union Theological Seminary by the side of her late distinguished husband, Rev. B. M. Smith, D. D., who for so many years was member of the faculty of that school of the prophets. During all those years the deceased presided with dignity and grace over the affairs of the household, and will be remembered by those who were privileged to know her as a woman of piety and good works. Her sister, widow of the late Rev. R. L. Dabney, D. D., who also taught in the seminary, survives her.

Inspection of Military.

Col. J. Lane Stern, Inspector General of the Volunteer forces of Virginia, inspected the Farmville Guard on last Friday night in their armory. Col. Stern made the inspection a rigid one and his report will be gratifying to our soldier boys as well as to their friends. A large gathering, composed largely of ladies was present on the pleasant occasion, and enjoyed the drill which preceded the inspection, and was under the command of Lieutenant Hunt. At the close of the inspection, Capt. Martin took them in hand, and again the audience enjoyed the spirited and accurate maneuvers. Farmville should be proud of the company, one of the most important factors of our corporate life.

Circus Day Comes Tomorrow.

The Great Wallace Show is advertised to appear here for one day only on Saturday, September 26th.

"Circus Day" is so universally welcomed by the average being, called human that it has come to be treated as a holiday in whatsoever place a big show pitches its tent.

This town is not immune from the circus fever and especially when the popular Wallace Show visits here in which event the keys of the town are practically turned over to the show. Without casting any reflection upon the merits of other shows, it can be said that upon its former visit here the Wallace Show gave the very best of satisfaction. The liberal applause given almost continually during its performance eclipsed the applause ever given any other circus. The Wallace Show is truly a great one, and judging from the comments of the press this year, it is better and greater than ever this season.

Tomorrow and the Wallace Show will have arrived on its special trains, and its city of white tents will spring up as if by magic. Its magnificent street parade will traverse the principal streets of the town the galloping music of its several bands and callopie will be heard, and the children, youth and other people will spend the day with their circus friends.

Virginia Tobacco at the Worlds Fair in St. Louis.

That Virginia is going to have a creditable tobacco exhibit at the St. Louis Exposition there is no doubt, because the tobacco people are becoming thoroughly interested in the enterprise and are determined to make it a success.

They are wide-awake people and fully realize the benefits which will be derived from the advertisement which will be given them, and when they determine to accomplish a specified result, the obstacle which they cannot surmount has yet to appear before them. They will not depend solely upon the state appropriation to cover the expenses of the exhibit, but nearly every market in the state has taken upon itself the task of getting up a special market exhibit and defraying the extra expense of installation, thus giving each an opportunity to make as elaborate exhibit as the amount of money they choose to spend on it will justify. We think this the most satisfactory plan that could have been adopted as it localizes the advertisement and creates a spirit of friendly rivalry, thereby causing each market to put forth every effort to make the handsomest display possible.

When these market exhibits are grouped in one grand general state exhibit, which will be made up of Virginia tobacco in every form from the seed to the finished product; arranged in the most artistic manner possible, and surrounded by all kinds of machinery and tools used in handling and working tobacco, we think it will make a showing which all Virginians will be proud to recognize as coming from their beloved old State. A more explicit and detailed outline of the plans for the exhibit will appear in the columns of this paper in a short time.

Ten Thousand Churches

In the United States have used the Longman & Martinez Pure Paints. Every Church will be given a liberal quantity whenever they paint.

Don't pay $1.50 a gallon for Linseed oil (worth 50 cents) which you do when you buy this paint in a can with a paint label on it.

8 & 6 make 14, therefore when you want twelve gallons of paint, buy six gallons of L. & M. and mix six gallons of pure linseed oil with it.

You need only four gallons of L. & M. Paint, and three gallons of Oil mixed therewith to paint a good sized house.

Houses painted with these paints never grow shabby, even after 15 years. These celebrated paints are sold by Chas. Bugg & Son.

"Welcome Sweet Day of Rest."

Those were the opening words of the opening hymn which was sung at one of our churches on last Sunday morning, and surely no more appropriate ones could have been selected. If we have perfect days that was one of them, the result being that all of our churches were filled with glad and grateful congregations, and our preachers were at their best. Sunday school rooms were cheerful places too, and all Farmville rejoiced in the bright sunshine and bracing air.

The girls generally were dressed in pure white, many of them wearing red trimmings to their hats, and were simply radiant. Our hope is that it will be many weeks yet before the summer colors are driven from our social and Sunday scenes, for there is nothing so beautiful to take their place.

How splendid the harmony between youth and beauty and bright colors. How can persons who object to flowers in churches be happy in such scenes?

Resolutions of Respect.

Resolutions adopted by the Farmville Presbyterian Sunday School, September 26th, 1903.

The subject of this sketch, Oscar T. Wicker, was dedicated to the service of God from his birth. His father being a ruling elder in our church. From early childhood he was a regular attendant at Sunday school. His lessons were always well prepared, and at the church service, he was always by his father's side. When about 15 years of age, he united himself with the church and was a consistent member until his sudden death which occurred on the 6th of September, 1903. The particulars of his death will never be known, but we rejoice that Oscar was ready for the summons, and we who knew him have every reason to believe that, "though absent from the body, he is present with the Lord."

Resolved, 1st. That as a Sunday school, we sincerely mourn his loss.

2nd. That his example will not be forgotten by us. His cheerfulness and faithfulness in the performance of all his duties won the respect of his classmates and teachers.

3rd. That we deeply sympathize with his mother and sisters in their great sorrow.

4th. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family, and be to the family and printed in the local papers.

Signed, Mrs. Ellen Berkeley, Charles Harrison, Archer V. Wade, Committee.

Resolutions Adopted by Covenant Company No. 13, Farmville, Va.

Whereas, Our Heavenly Father, in His all-wise and ever merciful providence, has seen fit to call to His heavenly home our young and beloved brother, Oscar T. Wicker, who so zealously devoted himself to the work of our Covenant Band; therefore be it resolved:—

1. That we, as members of this band, do bow in humble submission to our Father's will, knowing that in His loving kindness He hath afflicted us.

2. That, while we deplore the loss of our personal loss in the early death of our brother, we thank God for his useful and exemplary life, and for his loyalty to Christ and to the Church.

3. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family, with the assurance that they have the sincere sympathy of each member of our band in their great sorrow, and our prayers that they may be enabled to cast their burden upon the Lord, and to say "Thy will be done."

4. That a copy also be sent to the "Colors" and to the local papers for publication, and that the same be recorded in our minutes.

Talking Machine Dishes As Books.

From the New York World, August 30th '03.

Prof. Marion, of West Point, has been lecturing at the University of Chicago, the place to which all lecturers go when they have something strange where-to-tortle the world. Whether the megaphone facilities of the Midway University are superior or whether something in the air of Chicago leads professors and others to unbosom themselves to a sympathetic audience it is useless to inquire. The West Point professor at any rate announces still another new thing under the sun—the "talking discs" of the future.

According to him libraries will one day consist of graphophone discs, printing, the "art preservation of arts," will itself fall of preservation, and talking machines will be substituted for professors in teaching the languages. Says the prophet: "In time these discs will take the place of text-books. Paper-backed novels will disappear, and instead of reading printed books a man will only have to put a disc in his talking-machine and the novel will be read to him in the living voice of its creator."

Bellamy in "Looking Backward" carried this idea further and predicted the time when a man could sit in his parlor and listen to a concert, an orchestra or a sermon. This prediction has been in part fulfilled, and already, too, the graphophone has been utilized as a teacher of languages.

All About Arcanum.

Arcanum, Va., Sept. 22, 1903.

Finger tips feel almost cool enough for frost this morning but the hope is that it will not come as yet since much of the tobacco still stands in the fields.

At this writing Mr. Wm. B. Spencer hasn't cut a plant and says if he can have ten more days of growth and thickness he will cut one of the very best crops he ever grew and his want has been to grow it fine. He is busy too in getting old Rock mills in order to be ready for full work this season.

And this reminds me to say that while your city enjoys a great many things we country kin are denied, we too are blessed with some things to which you are strangers. For example corn meal ground between the old fashion burrows is just as superior to that from the roller process, as family flour is to shorts. You never saw real good batter bread made from the fine meal of the modern kind. And then, when the evening comes now-a-days how glorious it is to gather around an open fire, place all aglow with a blazing fire, taking the chill from the well-nigh already frosty air and spreading supreme comfort on all around. And just to think while we are thus blessed our poor "kinnery" of the cities are gazing at their black stoves and wondering where the coal for the winter will come from. I wish I could send you with this letter a bunch of light-wood to cheer your sanctum and brighten your editorial life. As this can't be conveniently done the next best thing to do is to come over and toast your toes by our first fall fires.

Miss Annie McCraw will have charge of the graded school at Enonville the coming session and this is cause of congratulation on the part of patrons and pupils for she is a distinguished graduate of your Normal School, and Miss Grace Elean, another accomplished teacher, will have charge of the New Store School.

One of our good housewives is to be congratulated on having one hen with 41 fine chickens and another with 32, 76 broilers at 30 cents apiece will be no poor return from two hens. Twenty-two dollars and eighty cents is a good pile of Christmas money.

Mr. Hebditch spent Sunday with his family and returned to Roanoke on Monday. They will join him soon and his gain there will be a great loss to the community.

Crewe Cullings.

CREWE, VA., Sept. 23, 1903.

The man, Franklin Richardson, who was arrested in your town and brought here, was tried Monday morning before Mayor Lee and made to pay all costs, and $50 to Mr. Smith from whom he hired the horse that he went off with. His partner in the lightning rod business paid him out. He is a shrewd chap, and came near swindling Mrs. Ferguson, a widow, who lives out in the country. He claimed to be a preacher and desirous of purchasing her lot here in Crewe. She told him the town had torn down several small houses belonging to her and she desired to make them pay for it. He claimed to be a lawyer and promised to get it for her if she would give him a note for $25. She did so, but he failed to get a witness to sign, and the merchant at Nettoway refused to cash it.

A gentleman from this town was with him and he threatened to shoot him if he told of this transaction. This so frightened the man that he got away from him at the first opportunity and made his way back to Crewe.

The bazaar is the all absorbing topic just now.

Monday night, the 28th, the local talent of the town will give an entertainment.

Tuesday evening the White Ribbon Band, of Petersburg, will give an entertainment and a sumptuous banquet has been prepared by the ladies. Admission to both only 35 cents.

Wednesday evening Miss Patti McGhee, of Richmond, will entertain. She is well known in Crewe and never failed to attract an audience.

Thursday Mrs. Yeamans, of Richmond, a talented elocutionist and reader will give an entertainment which promises to be a rare treat for our people.

Friday, the last night, Mr. Reginald Walker and his troupe from Richmond will charm us with music, reading and song.

Many contributions have been sent in and we anticipate a grand success.

Mayor Henry E. Lee took his sister, Miss Sallie Lee, to the Normal Wednesday.

Mrs. John Keeton, of Lawrenceville, visited her niece, Mrs. George Oliver, Saturday and Sunday of last week.

Mr. Perkins Agnew, cashier of the Bank of Crewe, but a resident of Burkeville, expects to move his family here at an early day.

Briery Briefs.

Briery, Va., Sept. 22, 1903.

This prolonged cold spell has made farmers rush ahead cutting tobacco a little green, we expect. Today is much warmer and from present prospects King Frost has postponed his visit for a while.

Mr. Lee Barksdale had the misfortune to be badly kicked by his colt Sunday afternoon. It rendered him unconscious for a while, but he soon recovered and when last heard from was doing well.

A mouse in snake bit the five-year-old child of Mr. J. D. Driskill on the foot one day last week. It was promptly dressed and doctored, and, but for a little soreness in the muscles of the leg which was tightly banded, is almost well again.

Miss Emma Redd will leave next week to teach the public school at Worsham.

Miss Lee Womack, of Baltimore, is visiting her brother, Mr. James W. Womack.

Mrs. Elie Jeffers arrived last week to spend some time with her sister, Mrs. Geo. W. Redd.

Mr. W. D. Redd visited in Charlotte Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Willie B. Chappell, who has been quite sick, is greatly improved. Her daughter, Miss Lizzie Chappell, of Farmville, was expected home on Sunday.

Miss Matt Buchanan was the much admired guest of Miss Susie Watkins last week. Her many friends are glad to have her in our midst again.

Mrs. Colin Stokes and sister, Miss Fannie, were guests at "Ingleside" Wednesday afternoon.

The many friends of Miss Virginia Fletcher were delighted to have her in our neighborhood again. She visited at "Ingleside" last week.

Miss Margaret Watkins will be greatly missed by her many friends.

day last.

Messrs. Wm. Kaud and R. W. Priddy were guests of Mr. J. W. Womack Sunday.

Mr. Walter McKay spent Saturday night with his father, Mr. W. C. McKay.

Darlington Heights Notes.

Darlington Heights, Va., Sept. 21, 1903.

Rev. Mr. Williams, of Brookneal, preached a very interesting sermon at Spring Creek yesterday. He will begin a meeting there on the fourth Sunday in October, will be assisted by Rev. Mr. Thompson, of your town.

The cold snap for the last few days made the farmers bustle.

Captain Franklin, of Lynchburg, who has been quite ill, is improving. He is now with
